

DECO

FINISH FORECAST

In 2025, expect to embrace both bold and serene palettes, reflecting a desire for balance & sustainability.

DECO Australia embraces the finest powder coating and sublimation technologies to offer a colour series of realistic timber, stone and weathered finishes.

Our Super Durable™ finishes not only offer exceptional durability in the form of UV resistance and marine grade powders, they also offer authentic looking finishes that work harmoniously with other colours, materials and textures.

When it comes to colour trends, DECO's evolving series of finishes ensures there is a selection that will complement modern design palettes as well as traditional projects.

For 2025, we are delighted to align our classic and contemporary DecoWood® and DecoVogue™ finishes with the Dulux Colour Forecast, creating exquisite exterior and façade colour palettes.

Dulux Colour Forecast 2025

“One of the most significant shifts this year is the increase in warm neutrals across the three palettes.”

Dulux Colour & Communications Manager, Andrea Lucena-Orr

The Dulux Colour Forecast is based on year-round research into the latest global and local trends that are predicted to influence Australian interior design.

Flowing from their interior predictions, the Dulux powder coat colour forecast aligns with the uplifting and soothing palettes, and highlights there are no bounds on how each of the colours within the palettes could be used.

Distilled into three distinct palettes Still, Recollect and Emerge demonstrate how colours with warm, brown undertones play an important role in evoking a sense of nurture and positivity. Meanwhile, rich burgundies and wine hues alongside greens of olive and sage, and vibrant yellow-green, embody heritage and nostalgia.

Read on to explore our selection of timber, stone, and textured DECO finishes, perfectly curated to complement Dulux's powder coat colour forecasts for 2025.

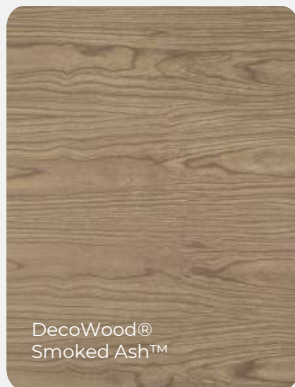

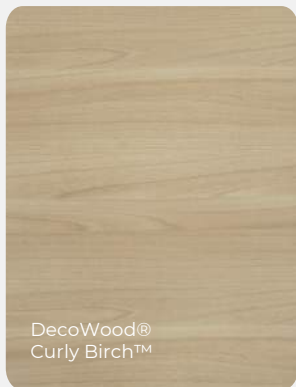

Still

Dulux Still has an instantly calming effect, creating a nourishing, comforting environment. It encourages a deeper connection with nature with warm greys accented by yellow-based neutrals, greens, and serene cool blues.
